LIQUOR VIOLATORS TRIAL DATES SET IN LOCAL COURT

The case of John Barrett and wife, Sophia, arrested about two weeks ago charged with sale of intoxicating liquor came up Monday morning. A trial by jury was decided and the rest of the morning was consumed in setting the case and getting the jury arranged.

Barrett and his wife were arrested on testimony given by a "drunk" before Judge Raab in the city court. The man admitted buying the liquor from Barrett and volunteered information.

The re-trial of Henry Himschoot, charged with unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor, was set for Monday, Nov. 20. Himschoot was given a trial which lasted two days last week, but the jury failed to reach an agreement late Saturday night and was discharged.

He was arrested Oct. 16, after the police had found a large quantity of Canadian beer cached in his garage, which was said by the state chemist who analyzed it, to contain over four per cent of alcohol by volume.

Mishawaka Book Shop Observes Book Week

In accordance with the National campaign for children's book week, the Mishawaka Book Shop is conducting contests among the local children. Prizes will be given for the best list of books accompanied by a photograph or snapshot of the books themselves. The first prize is a choice of two Kipling books, "The Jungle Book" or "Hewards and Palms." The second is a set of book plates. A prize of a package of gummed bookplates will also be given for the best list of books submitted without an accompanying photograph.

The rules governing the contest are: No child over 14 years of age can compete; all books listed or photographed must be the exclusive property of the child entering the contest; all books photographed must occupy a separate shelf or case and must not be mixed in with other books. The contest closes Monday night, Nov. 20.
